DAY CELEBRATE --- NATIONAL DOCTOR'S DAY

In India, we celebrate it on the 1st of July every year.

In India, it marks the birth and death anniversary of the legendary physician and second Chief Minister of West Bengal, Dr. Bidhan Chandra Roy. Dr. Roy encouraged women of all classes and communities to come forward and avail medical treatment in the Seva Sadan started by him and his team. His training center helped women learn about nursing and social work, and in turn, spread the knowledge forward. After his death, the house he lived in was turned into a nursing home as per his wish. It was named after his mother, Aghorkamini Devi.

We celebrate Doctor's Day not only to honor Dr. Roy but each and every person related to the field of medicine for their tireless efforts and dedication towards the patients.

DAY CELEBRATE—Women Equality Day

Women's Equality Day, celebrated every August 26, commemorates the passage of women's suffrage in the U.S. and reminds us of the hurdles overcome by the heroic women who faced violence and discrimination to propel the women's movement forward.

In the early 19th century, American women, who generally couldn't inherit property and made half of a man's wages in any available jobs, began organizing to demand political rights and representation.

What are the Ways to Celebrate Women's Equality Day?

Women's Equality Day can be observed by remembering all the women who had fought for women's equality. You can also celebrate it by visiting one of the museum exhibitions that is totally dedicated to this subject. The day can also be marked by encouraging bills that have an impact on women. Or on this day, women can register to vote – which is one of the perfect ways to celebrate Women's Equality Day.

DAY CELEBRATE – National Sports Day

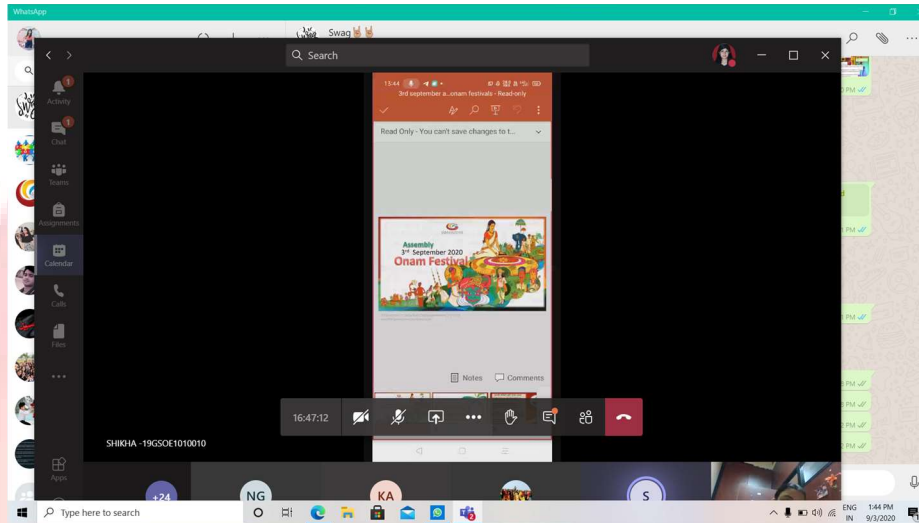

Dhyan Singh was born to mother Sharadha Singh and father Sameshwar Singh on August 29th, 1905 in Allahabad, Kushwaha. His father served in the British Indian Army and in his spare time, he played field hockey – which is probably where Dhyan Chand got his talent. As a young boy, he didn't have an inclination towards hockey but that changed when he joined the British Indian Army at the age of 16. Once there, he decided to follow in his father's footsteps and practice the sport. He would wait for the moon to come out to practice, however, as there were no electric floodlights at the time. This prompted his teammates to give him the name "Chand", a name which means the moon. That is how he became known as Dhyan Chand.

The sole reason behind celebrating National Sports Day lies in championing the spirit of sportsmanship and propagating the message of various sports. The states of Punjab and Haryana are particularly involved in this and the celebrations are done with a lot of pomp and flair. Various competitions are organized ranging from kabaddi, marathon, basketball, tennis, football, cricket among others while talent hunts are conducted at the same time, all in the combined effort to promote sporting talent.

The generous king granted the boy his wishes of three paces of land, at which Lord Vishnu grew to his gigantic Trivikrama form and covered the earth and the sky. As the third piece of land, the King offered his head, at which Vishnu was impressed by his humility and devotion. TOPIC TO BE DISCUSSED

Meaning of Economics

2.

Concept Economics of Education

3.

Principle of Economics of Education

4.

The Private And Social Returns To Education

WHAT IS ECONOMICS

- ❖ Economics deals with the production, consumption and transfer of wealth (goods and services) within society.
- ❖ Economics is concerned about scarce resources. To provide goods and services for present and future consumption alternative use of scarce resources is necessary.
- ❖ Economics is the study of how society uses its limited resources.
- ❖ Adam Smith is known as 'father of modern Economics'.

ECONOMICS OF EDUCATION

- ❖ Economics of Education is the application of Economic principles, concepts, laws to the process of Education.
- ❖ The systematic study of how to choose alternatives that would give mankind the greatest satisfaction.
- ❖ Economics of Education is the study of economic issues related with education. The issues may be demand for education, the financing and provision of education, various educational policies etc..

- ❖ Economics of Education concern itself with of how to use the limited educational resources to satisfy the unlimited educational wants.
- ❖ Economics of education is the study of how educational managers make choices concerning the use of the scarce educational resources, and this is what economics do in the education system.

This scarcity of resources means that policymakers must decide:

- 1) What to produce --How much to spend on each stage of education.
- 2) How to produce education--How to provide educational services in a way that maximises its benefits to society.
- 3) For whom is education provided --Who should have access to each stage of education.

The Fundamental problem of Economics of Education

There are three decision makers or stakeholders in the educational system.

These are --:

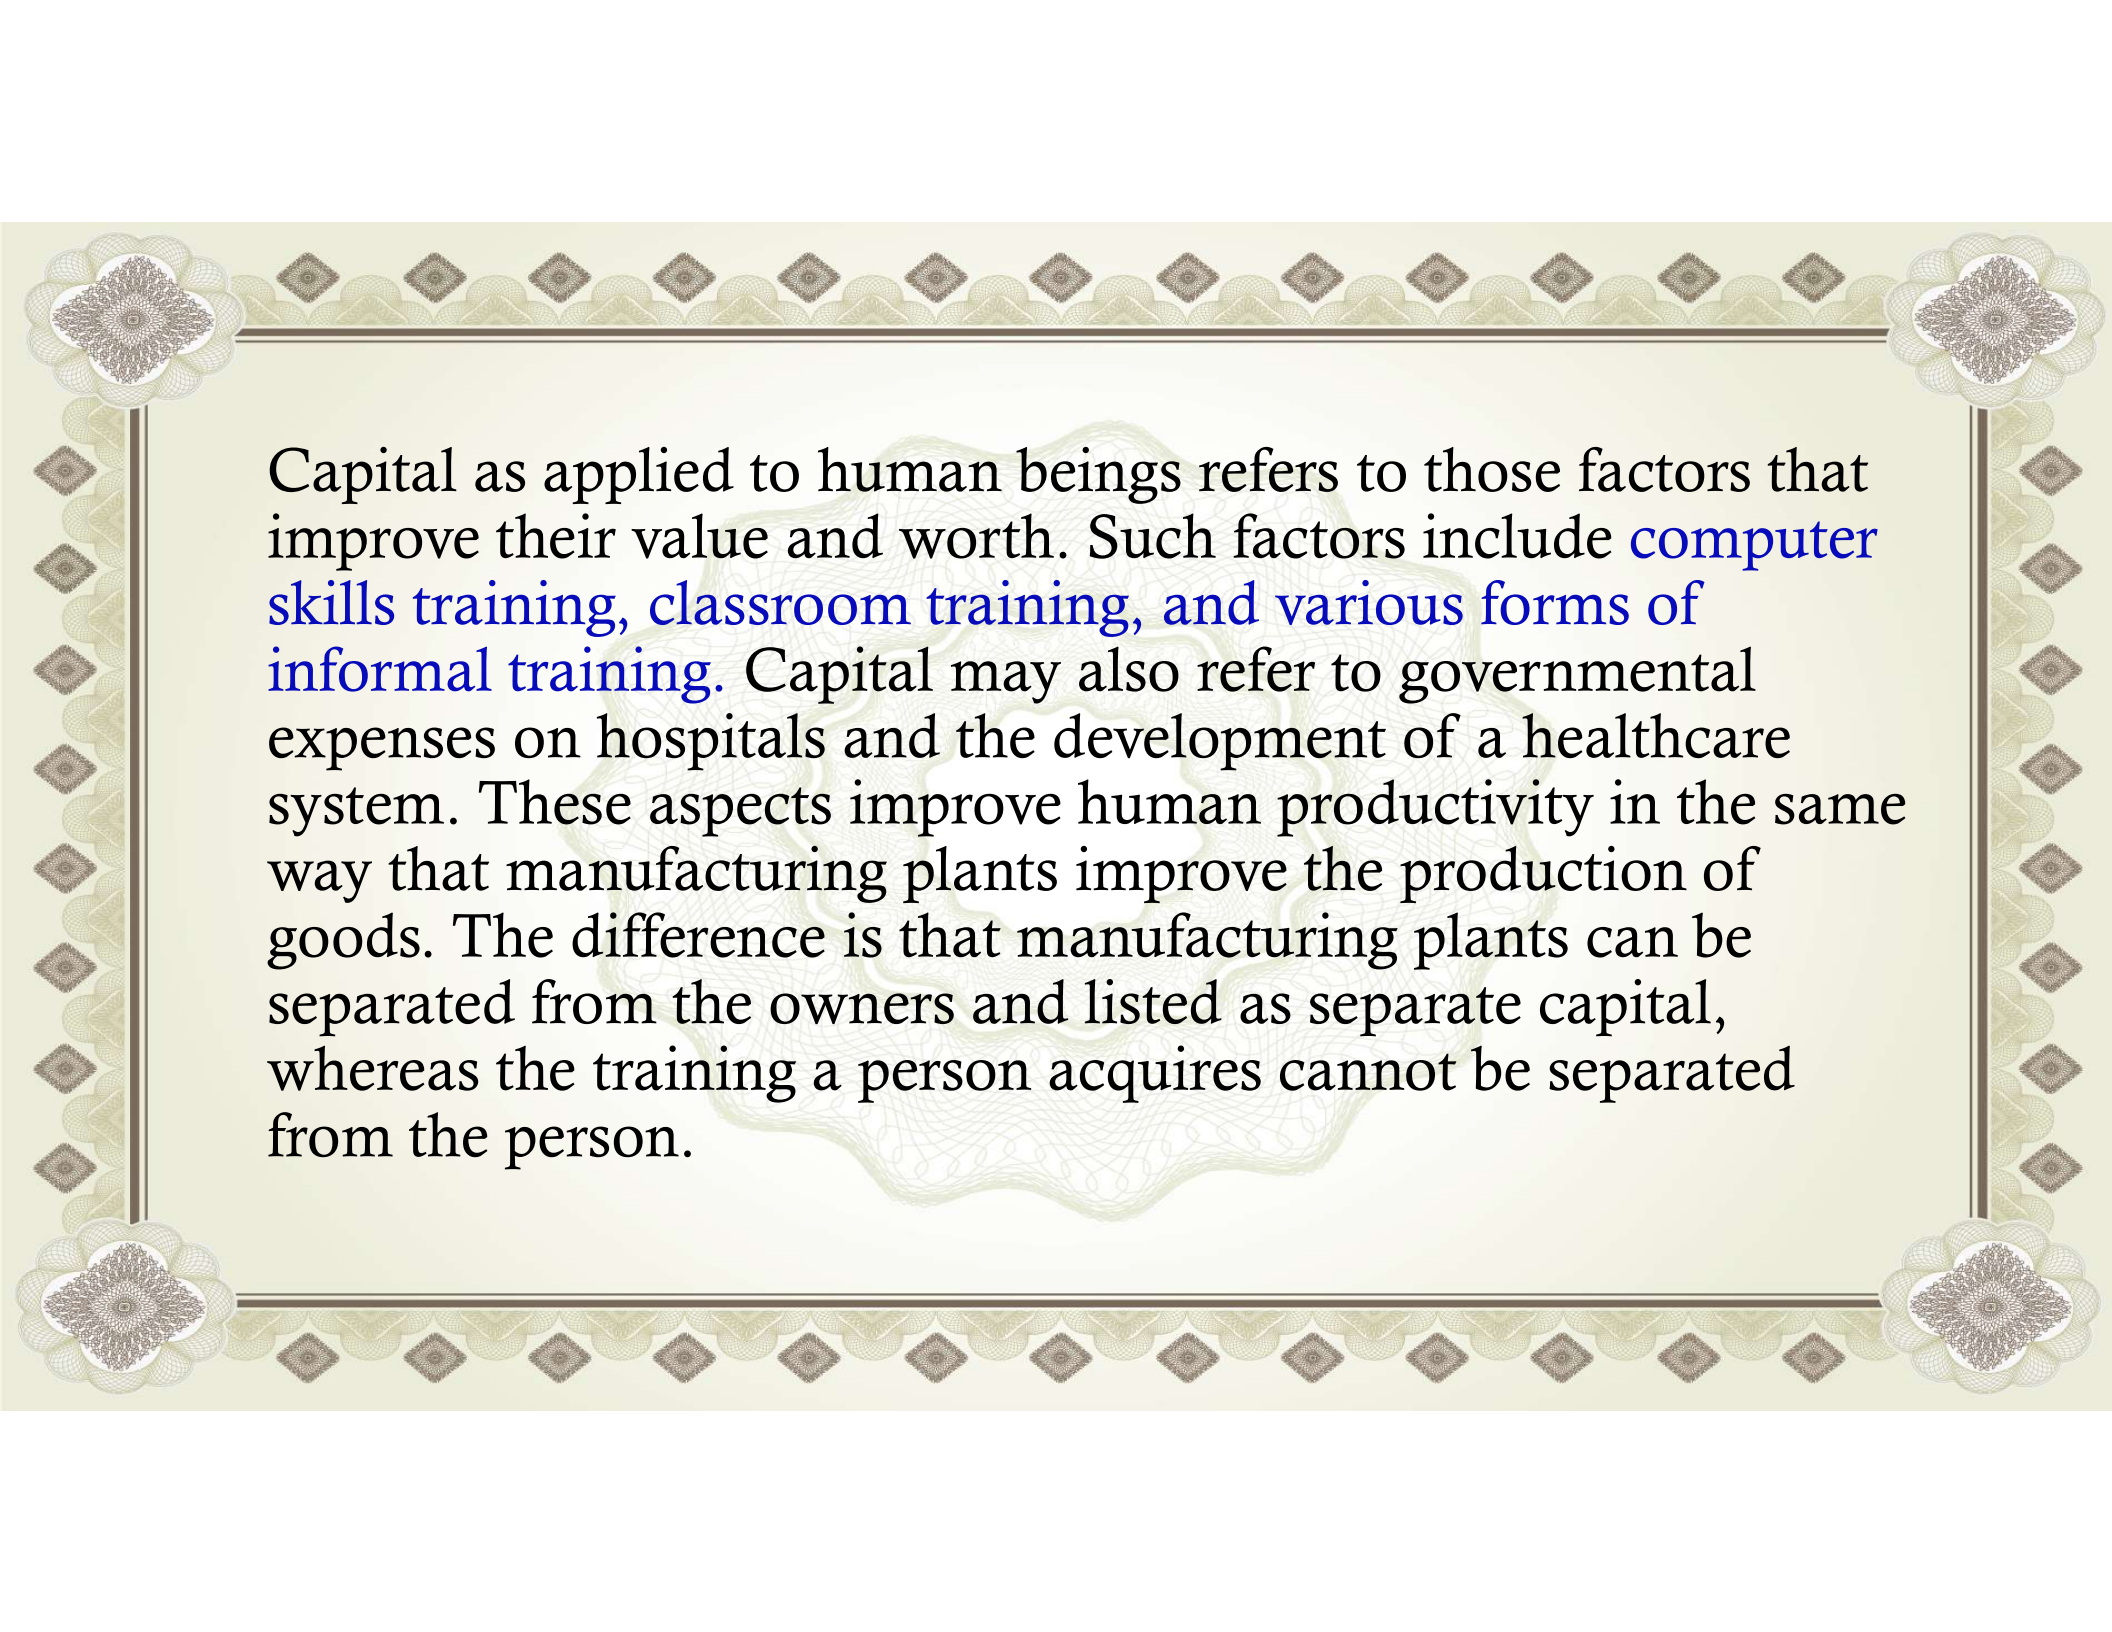

- (1) The society
- (2) The institutions or providers (suppliers) of education and
- (3) Individual or households (purchasers of educational services).

The twin problem of scarcity and choice face these major stakeholders.

Human capital

Human capital the collective skills, knowledge, or other intangible assets of individuals that can be used to create economic value for the individuals, their employers, or their community: Education is an investment in human capital that pays off in terms of higher productivity.

Capital as applied to human beings refers to those factors that improve their value and worth. Such factors include computer skills training, classroom training, and various forms of informal training. Capital may also refer to governmental expenses on hospitals and the development of a healthcare system. These aspects improve human productivity in the same way that manufacturing plants improve the production of goods. The difference is that manufacturing plants can be separated from the owners and listed as separate capital, whereas the training a person acquires cannot be separated from the person.

Limited Resources

Educational Resources are Limited

Resources: such as men, money, materials are limited in supply and serve as input into the educational system. These inputs include--:

1. Men (M): teachers, policy makers, non-teaching staff;
2. Materials (M): students (raw materials), teaching and research materials, teaching aids and other equipments;
3. Money (M): cash, cheque and notes;
4. Management (M): polices, plans, programmes, time table and educational laws; and
5. Time.

Education as Investment

- ✓ Education is amenable to supply-demand analysis. As students, parents and employees, and the government demand education at different prices and this demand is met by the education output as educated manpower, well trained citizens, literate people, etc.
- ✓ Education produces a society with productive capacity to satisfy the material and non-material wants of the population.
- ✓ Educational achievement and Economic success are clearly linked.

Education for Economics development

- ✓ Education is one of the most important factors that lead a country to sustained economic growth.
- ✓ One of the major factors in developing this resource i.e. human capital is education.
- ✓ Education is an investment in human beings that may come in various forms. It may be in the form of learning a trade or obtaining a degree, it could take the form of seminars and workshops, or it could be in the form of personal development programs aimed at improving personal skills. The bottom line and the connection between human capital and education is the fact that education improves the economic and productive worth of an individual.

- ✓ Another way of viewing the concept of human capital and education is to consider the effect human productivity has on the Gross Domestic Output (GDP) of a nation. GDP is often used as a measure of the economic situation on a country. Those countries with high a high GDP often have a well-trained and educated workforce. They also have good healthcare models that improve the health and life expectancy of their workers. This illustrates that human capital and education cannot be separated from the Economic development of a nation.
 - ✓ Education has therefore become a very important part of every government policy. Much effort has been done with respect to education in many developing countries including Pakistan.

Mutually dependent relationship

- ✓ Education and economy are regarded as mutually dependent.
 - Interconnected & interrelated
 - Demand and Supply relationship
- ✓ Investment in education is an important condition for promoting both economic growth and national development. Increase in quality of Education is the basis for increase in National Income, GDP, Economic growth, etc.
- ✓ Education is a Source for Acquiring Relevant Skills and Expertise and countries with better skilled labour-force, develop faster.
- ✓ Economics decides proper utilization of limited resource.

COST OF EDUCATION

COST OF EDUCATION

Private cost

Expenses incurred for School fee, book, clothing and relating costs that a student or family must bear.

Social cost

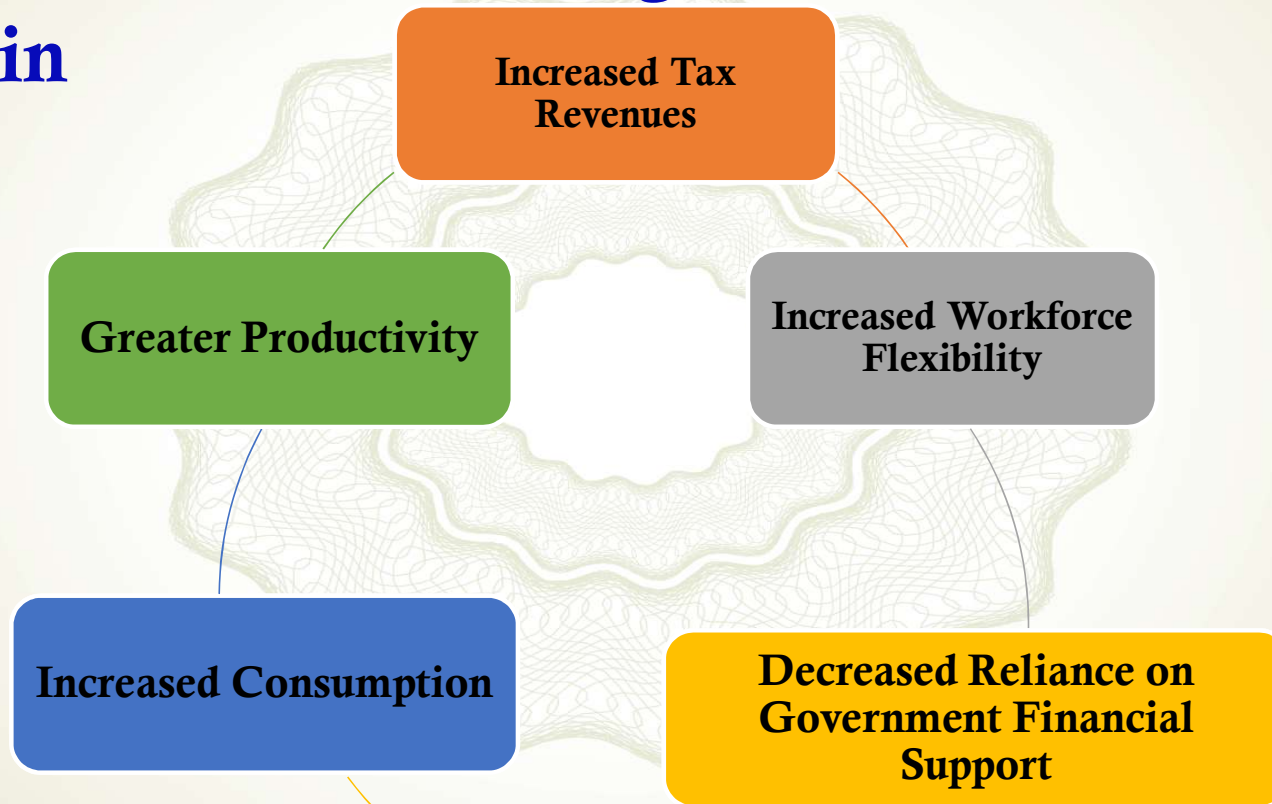

Cost incurred for the society as a whole

THE PRIVATE AND SOCIAL RETURNS TO EDUCATION

- Public benefits
- Private benefits

The private rate of return reflects the direct cost of schooling to individuals (i.e., their out-of pocket cost). The social rate of return reflects the full cost to society of schooling, including any public subsidies. The private rate of return should be based on after-tax income, whereas the social rate of return should be based on pre-tax income, but this is not always done.

Social Benefits of Higher Education in Public Domain
